The assortment of mums on the previous page are great for Fall decorating with their many colors and flower shapes. We typically have each color planted in 8", 10" and 12" fiber pots, and many of them are also available in hanging baskets. Each variety blooms at different times throughout September, so you won't find all of them blooming at the same time when you visit, but you can find at least one variety in each color class from the 1st week of September until early October. Below the name is an indication of when they typically bloom, in case you want to choose several colors that give you color throughout the season.

If you are looking for a truly perennial, hardy mum, plant Mammoth mums. Bred by the University of MN, these are the hardiest mums available, as long as you get them planted 6 weeks before frost (approx. mid September). They can also get very large (3-5 feet across, 3 ft tall), so it doesn't take many to fill an area but give them lots of room.
